LETTER FROM OLD SCOTT.

Good News from the Eighth District

—Simms' Election Certain—The

People Anxious, etc., etc., Spirit and Determination, etc., etc., etc., etc., etc., (Correspondence of the Louisville Courier.)

SCOTT COUNTY, June 10, 1861.

Editor Louisville Courier—I am gratified to hear of your good news from this Congressional District. Our gallant candidate, Hon. W. E. Simms, is prosecuting a most vigorous campaign. He has spoken daily since he started out, and to the largest and most respectable audiences I have ever seen. The people here are aroused, and men who have heretofore allowed themselves to be blindly led by their leaders, are determined to do their own thinking, and vote for Simms. Our friends in the other Congressional Districts need have no fear of this. We are all united in the belief that a handsome majority. We are daily gaining accessions to our strength, and the people of this district will follow the lead of this district in this decided hour of our country's history. I am, Sir, very respectfully, Sir, your obedient servant, W. E. SIMMS.

Yours, &c., COLEMAN.

The Attitude of England Towards the United States.

The London Standard writes in its issue of the 10th inst. that the sentiment of the people of this country is in favor of the recognition of the Confederate States. A few days ago the Manchester Guardian, the leading organ of the cotton growers, was warmly in favor of sustaining the Union and against the South. It has lately changed its mind, and has become warmly in favor of the South as the Charleston Mercury itself. In an article dated the 25th of May, it is particularly anxious that the Union should be maintained, and that the South should be recognized. It is not fighting for liberty any more than the Emperor of Russia is fighting for it in Poland. It speaks of Mr. Clay as 'this country's Minister Plenipotentiary,' and states its attitude 'towards' him.

Mr. Clay's second point, we really do not think it fair to say, is a very weak one. It is that it is impossible to maintain a policy of non-interference with the cotton-growing States to the exclusion of the non-cotton-growing States. 'No tariff will be imposed on the cotton States, and the fact that the Northern States are the best consumers of English cottons.

We believe that Mr. Clay's second point will tell Mr. Clay a different tale, and that he will be obliged to modify his policy. It is not in the least probable that the cotton States will be able to maintain their position in the market

if the cotton States are not able to

if the cotton States are not able to

if the cotton States are not able to

if the cotton States are not able to

if the cotton States are not able to

if the cotton States are not able to
